Course Description

An historical introduction to philosophy from the pre-Socratics to modern times. Topics such as the nature of God, of knowledge, of human nature, of society, of friendship, and of beauty will be studied through the close reading and discussion of representative Great Books of the Western philosophical tradition.

Course Objectives

- a) Knowledge of major Western philosophical disciplines, especially Thomism. - Students will demonstrate an ability to read analytically and critically assess great books in philosophy from all of the major historical periods, and to articulate the relation between the philosophical arguments studied and the implications for other disciplines, e.g. fine arts, literature, history, etc.
- b) Skills in reading, writing and oral communication. - Students will write argumentative essays on philosophical topics, logically assess philosophical arguments in writing and orally, and practice synthesizing the content of primary sources.

Course Assignments and Evaluation

Participation - 20%: As this class uses Socratic pedagogy, student participation in seminar discussions is required. A rubric for the participation grade will be available on the first day of class.

Short weekly assignments (0.5-1 page) – 20%: Short assignments based upon the weekly readings and discussions will be assigned at the end of the final class of each week and due at the start of the first class of each week. Each assignment should be one well-structured paragraph that develops a single idea with adequate evidence and elaboration in response to the prompt. [NB. The lowest grade from the semester in this category will be reduced in value by 50%.]

Two short essays (5-7 pages each) – 30%: Topics in the course schedule, and rubrics will be given in class. All essays must be turned in by 5pm on the due date, via email.

Final Exam – 30%: A study guide will be offered at least one week prior to the exam.

Essay Prompts

ESSAY 1 (Nov 1)

In Bk. II of the Republic, Socrates is tasked with proving that it is better to be the perfectly just man, even in the face of persecution, than the perfectly unjust man who possesses the ring of Gyges. How does the dialog answer this challenge?

Or:

Explain the allegory of the cave. What does it reveal to us about the nature of the good and how it is to be attained?

ESSAY 2 (Dec 8)

From its very name, philosophy is concerned with wisdom. What views have we encountered this semester about what it means to live wisely? Which one presents the most coherent argument, and why?

General Academic Information

Course Attendance

No credit will be given for a course if the student has been absent, for any reason whatever, from one-third or more of the lectures and/or seminars scheduled for the term. Likewise, no credit will be given if term assignments or other assignments are or remain incomplete.

Leave of Absence and Policy for Incompletes

Extensions to an incomplete grade may be granted in extenuating circumstances, but may not exceed 16 weeks following the end of the course. Students who fail to complete course work by the agreed deadline will have a grade assigned which is based on work completed.

Academic Integrity

Acts of academic dishonesty (plagiarism, cheating, etc.) are subject to an appropriate penalty. The grade "F" may be assigned to a student guilty of such acts by the professor of the course in which the infraction occurred. A second offense against academic integrity renders the student liable to automatic dismissal from NTC. Further details are available in the Student Handbook in the Academic Misconduct Policy.

Academic Grievances

Students may appeal grades received; the procedure is outlined in the Student Handbook in the Grade Appeal Policy. For other grievances, students will refer to the Student Grievances Policy also outlined in the Student Handbook.

NOTE: The GPA is computed on the basis of cumulative grade point (letter) values, not percentage values. All courses are included in this calculation except those exceeding degree requirements and/or received as transfer credits from other recognized institutions.
